

The Three C's – leadership secret weapon

To be effective today and have impact across generations, cultures, and mindsets, leaders must possess, practice and master commitment, compassion, and curiosity.

Real leadership requires:

COMMITMENT: at a very basic level, the definition of a leader is someone who goes first. Developed self awareness allows you to propel forward into the unknown, even when things feel uncertain. Look fear in the face – self doubt, indecision, going along with the crowd.

COMPASSION: understanding that team members don't necessarily see the world in the same way you do, and then making an effort to listen and understand, rather than dictate.

CURIOSITY: listen without agenda, be ok with being wrong. Open ended questions without a pre conceived outcome, promote experimentation, questioning the legacy and allowing the 'new'. All done in the spirit of adventure and discovery.
